Work4CA Overview

In 2023, the State of CA created the Work for California (Work4CA) campaign focused on recruiting laid-off tech workers. After its success, CalHR created a broader statewide campaign aimed at developing the state workforce and advancing equity.

Work4CA is a statewide recruitment campaign that:

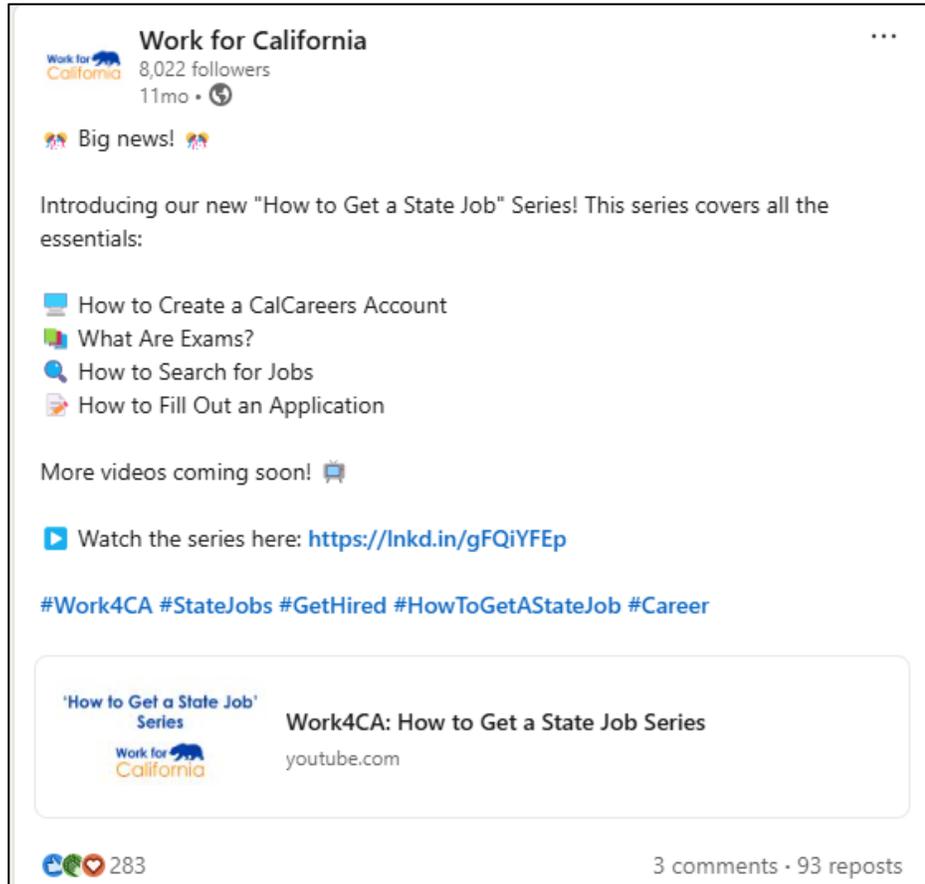

- Showcases the many employment opportunities available
- Positions the state as the largest employer
- Provides applicants with general information on all the benefits on working for the state

Focus Group Learnings

We held focus groups to inform the role Work4CA takes in the state job application process. Key takeaways:

- Navigating the application process was difficult
- Job seekers lacked direction for the overall state application process
- Applicants felt "ghosted" by the process

Workforce Development Division (WDD)

- Comprised of the statewide functions related to Learning and Development, Workforce Planning, Succession Management, and Organizational Development.
- These inter-related programs support state departments in their goals to attract, retain and develop a well-qualified and diverse workforce that meets their current and future mission-critical business needs.

Drivers of Employee Retention

- Connection to the organization's values and mission
- Meaningful work
- Learning and development opportunities
- Career path within the organization
- Employee recognition
- Total compensation and benefits

Onboarding is Crucial for Retention

- Onboarding is your first opportunity to influence all aspects of retention right away.
- Can improve employee retention by 58% and productivity by 50% (SHRM).
- Can reduce time-to-productivity (SHRM).
- Can result in increased engagement (Gallup).

Four Components of Successful Onboarding

- Hiring and Orientation
 - Connect before the new employee's start date to help them understand what to expect.
- Access and Technology
 - Ensure the new employee has the appropriate tools.
- People and Relationships
 - Facilitate relationship building and belonging by introducing the new employee to key staff.
- Process and Performance
 - Help the new employee understand how their work fits into the organization's mission and what training is available.

Onboarding

Welcome to CalHR's Onboarding site. This page is for hiring managers and HR professionals. We intend for it to be used when you are onboarding a new employee or improving your onboarding process. We hope this page helps you and your team in your onboarding efforts.

Onboarding Overview

What is onboarding?

Onboarding is the process of ensuring that a new employee is successfully brought onto the team. While a big part of onboarding is about making sure they have all the necessary equipment and paperwork filled out, it also includes making sure that they feel welcomed and part of the team. There may also be aspects of onboarding that apply to employees entering a new role within the organization. Additionally, onboarding is an element of organizational change that can be helpful to think of in various situations, like bringing a new project team together or launching a new project.

Benefits and Impact of Onboarding

A well-designed onboarding experience can help your new employee thrive. When they have the equipment, knowledge and training they need to start working effectively as soon as possible, it can also lead to better connection with the team and the mission. Effective onboarding also has a positive correlation with employee engagement, increased retention and overall alignment with strategic goals, vision and values.
